

A photograph of a child in a striped shirt and green pants playing with a white ball in a dark courtyard at night. The child is in the center, leaning forward. To the left, a large shadow of the child is cast onto a light-colored wall. The wall features an arched doorway and a small window with bars. To the right, there is a window with shutters and a small table with a chair. The ground is dark and covered with grass and some debris.
