

A photograph of three children in a forest, engaged in building a wooden structure. The child in the center, a girl with blonde hair wearing a blue and white striped shirt, is holding a hammer and appears to be in the middle of a swing. To her left, a girl with brown hair is smiling and holding a vertical wooden plank. To the right, a boy wearing a green beanie and a blue jacket is also smiling. They are surrounded by numerous vertical wooden poles of varying heights, which form the walls of the structure they are building. The background shows a dense forest with trees and green foliage. The overall atmosphere is one of joyful outdoor activity and teamwork.
